

The art department – Playgrounds festival

I made the decision not to attend the festival due to a combination of work commitments and prioritizing my mental well-being. While I do appreciate the opportunity provided and I recognize the value of attending the event has, I really had to make a fast decision and assess whether attending was going to be beneficial or just overwhelm me. I know struggling with balancing studies, work and my personal life is not an excuse, but I thought this was the best decision to make, for me. Next time, I will put more effort into coordinating my life to be able to attend, as I am aware these opportunities are provided with the sole reason to help us students.
